

Market Watch

Omaha

- Multifamily: Demand remains solid despite new supply, supporting stable rents around $1,288/unit. Strong fundamentals create long-term growth potential.
- Office: Early signs of stabilization with modest absorption; flexible and short-term lease trends open opportunities for modern, adaptable office space.
- Industrial: Exceptional performance with tight vacancy (~3%) and rising rents, fueled by robust logistics and e-commerce demand.

Minneapolis/St. Paul

- Multifamily: Vacancy remains low (~4%), driving strong rent growth above $1,600/month and sustained investor interest.
- Office: Smaller tenant leases are boosting absorption, with rents rising modestly, possibly signaling the start of a positive office recovery.
- Industrial: Low vacancy (~4%) and continued rent growth make this sector a top performer with strong investor appeal.

Key Takeaways

- Omaha's multifamily market offers stability and growth potential, while the Twin Cities continue to experience strong absorption and rent appreciation.
- Industrial remains a standout performer in both markets, delivering consistent returns.
- Office markets are showing early signs of recovery, creating opportunities for adaptive, modern spaces.

News Update

ISSUE 34 | MARCH 2026

4th Quarter Acquisitions

Omaha, Nebraska

SR Realty Trust (SRRT) continues to expand its presence in Omaha, Nebraska with two fourth-quarter acquisitions, bringing the portfolio to 10 investments in the market.

SRRT Benson DST is a Class A mixed-use property in Omaha's Benson neighborhood, featuring 100 residential units and approximately 3,000 square feet of commercial space leased to First Interstate Bank. The asset offers potential upside through professional management and rent growth.

5902 Industrial DST is a newly constructed (2024) Class A industrial facility totaling 203,500 square feet. The property is fully leased to OTR Engineered Solutions and Pacific Engineering Inc., with a weighted average lease term of nine years.

SRRT has structured the SRRT Benson DST and SRRT 5902 Industrial DST to allow 1031 exchange investors to reinvest into both properties.
